Council accepts road, utilities at development site

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

City council members maintained their cool during the 'eleventh hour' of a high pressure council meeting last week. Council members were confronted with a request by developer and owner Wendall Flynn, "to accept the 'dedicated road' and approve the utilities," in the Airport Parking Development before the end of this year.

"I just wanted to make your holiday a bit more complex," said Flynn before members of the city council at their last scheduled meeting of 1986.

And that he did.

After lengthy debate among members of the council, they agreed to accept the road and the utilities pending final approval from city engineers and inspectors.

The next day, a special meeting of the Tax Increment Financing Authority approved an agreement allowing TIFA to repay Flynn for his financing of the infrastructure in the Airport Parking TIFA district.

Without such action by both the TIFA and council members, there was a "strong possibility," three major projects in the development would "pull out" according to Richard Viskochil, economic development director.

"We want assurance that the work competed in the development meets city standards. The repayment to Flynn is contingent upon approval by our engineers and inspectors," said Mayor Beverly McAnally.

A representative from the Marriott Co., Ruth Warren, presented a plea before members of city council on Monday.

"Marriott has two proposed hotel developments on two parcels. We need to close this year. We need assurance from the city that the road needs to a public road," she stressed.

Members of the city council approved the creation of the Airport Parking Development TIFA district shortly after the first of the year, according to Viskochil.

Flynn has "fronted the money for all the infrastructure improvements" in this project and would be reimbursed with TIFA funds after "taxes from the new development" are captured by the city.

"Flynn has sat on this agreement for six months. Here we sit at the 23rd hour and we're getting unjustifiable pressure," said Councilman Noah Bergeron.

Several members expressed concern about any council action following the agreement passed this month between members of both the school board and city council to share information and receive input regarding TIFA development in the city.

The late agreement between Flynn and the city is the result of confusion created by the new tax laws in effect for this year, according to Viskochil.

"Give a drunk a ride," is a program sponsored by the Wayne County Sheriff Department for residents in western Wayne County. "The program offers individuals a ride home to those who have had too much to drink," said Deputy William Wadsworth. Residents call 721-2222 for assistance. Airport limits car rental advertisers

ANP Staff Writer

Local car rental agencies opened the mail recently to discover several of their businesses can no longer advertise in the prime airport locations. And they are shocked.

According to Oscar Rhotin, franchise owner of Rent-a-Wreck on Middlebelt Road, "The situation is critical."

"This will hurt not only the car rental business but the traveler and the city. I could lose up to 50 percent of my business," he said.

The advertising ban affects only agencies not located on airport property which includes Ajax, Rent-a-Wreck, Holiday Payless, McDonald Ford, American International, Thrifty and Snappy, according to Rhotin.

Those not affected by the ban include only the five businesses whose operations are located on airport property, Budget, Avis, Hertz, National and Dollar.

Airport spokesperson Mike Conway said, "The agencies bid competitively and only those five got the counter space. Dick Jamison, the airport director that it is unfair for a company who operates off site and pays the airport nothing should get the prime advertising sites. They are only restricted from advertising near these other car rental agencies. They can still advertise elsewhere in the airport."

"The airport has total control. They felt this was unfair competition for their on-site agencies," said Bob Schollenberger, president of Detroit Airport Advertising, the company responsible for leasing advertising space in the airport.

The advertising ban will affect the approximately 2,000 cars of the seven off-site agencies, Rhoten noted.

Rent-a-Wreck has 328 locations worldwide. The Romulus franchise has 60 cars with nine employees. They are the smallest local car rental agency. "Our company has a good image, don't let the name fool you. It scares people, until they rent a car from us once. This franchise just became the company's midwest training center," he said.

"Our advertising must be removed by the first of the year. We intend to pursue a lawsuit and get an injunction. Our attorney said this is an unfair practice. This will hurt the city. We're outside the airport fence and unlike those inside, we pay Romulus taxes. We want to stay in Romulus and we want to grow. The growth potential here is unlimited," Rhoten said.

"It's true it hurts them, but the airport is entirely supported by user fees and they're the ones who pay the bills," said Conway.

Smoking issue smolders

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The gap between smokers and non-smokers narrows as of Jan. 1, when according to new state legislation, smoking will be severely restricted in public places.

Across the state, communities and businesses debate the issue of where individuals who still smoke can light up. And although local government officials are not taking the issue lightly, Mayor Beverly McAnally, a non-smoker, said no further clarification of Public Act 198 will be instituted in Romulus at this time.

"If there is a problem, we will address it, but I don't expect any," she said.

The Romulus School District has a different dilemma. Questionnaires regarding smoking circulated throughout the schools early this month, as according to Mike Birmingham, Romulus High School Education coordinator, each school would adopt its own policy.

The problem intensifies as smoking areas are restricted for teachers, but where do the students who smoke, smoke? Only in the past couple of years, have high school officials designated an area for student smokers.

"There's a strong feeling that if the school decides to go smoke free, which would mean closing the student smoking area, they would start hanging out in the bathrooms and eventually destroy them," Birmingham said.

In November, students in the high school participated in the Great American Smoke Out. Seventy-five percent of the students said they were against smoking. But at any given class break, "at least a couple of hundred students huddle in the student smoking area behind the building.

Twenty-five percent of the faculty smoke, according to the results of the teacher survey. The national figure is closer to 32 percent, Birmingham said.

"About 50 percent of the teachers want a smoke free building, about 51 percent favor a designated smoking area.

"A lot of kids want to close the smoking area but they don't want to lose their friends. Peer pressure is difficult. There are no easy answers.

"As educators, if we allow smoking, we turn our backs on one of the most important lessons of life, good health. But once addicted, smokers need their cigarettes. Whatever is decided has to benefit everyone. Stay tuned for the unfolding story," he said.

Gear named top Detroit teacher

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Detroit School Superintendent Arthur Jefferson presented Randolph Gear of Romulus with the 1986 Detroit Teacher of the Year award.

The life time city resident credits his education in Romulus for the achievement. He also credits growing up during the 60s for his "sensitivity to world issues."

"I was exposed to lot of things," said the 35-year-old Gear.

He was selected from 23 nominees, all from Detroit schools. In April, a banquet will honor all the nominees at a banquet in the Lansing Kellogg Center.

Today, Gear diligently teaches commercial art at Von Steuben Middle School on the east side of Detroit. He has taught in the Detroit schools since he graduated from the University of Michigan in 1973.

"This is quite an honor," he said. "The Detroit school system is the fourth largest in the country with 10,000 teachers. The voting is done by your (See TEACHER, page 3)

Collision claims lone victim

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The holiday weekend was marred by a fatal accident at the intersection of Middlebelt and Wick roads early Sunday morning.

Sidney William Fields, 54, of Flat Rock died shortly after he was transported to Westland Medical Center.

Fields was traveling westbound on Wick about 6:40 a.m. when he was struck broadside by Phedee Strong, 65, of Inkster who was northbound on Middlebelt. Strong received only minor injuries, according to Romulus Police.

"It appeared that neither driver was drinking. Fields was not wearing his seat belt. Strong was," noted police reports.

"The case has gone to the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office for review. It appears that Stone failed to observe the red light and struck Fields as he when through the intersection," said Detective Ken Kraus of the Romulus Police.

New officers hit books, grapple with self-defense

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

The year-end holidays are still school days for 44 law enforcement trainees enrolled in the Wayne County Sheriff's Academy.

Now in their eighth week of training, 30 men from the Sheriff's Department plus officers from Romulus and Van Buren Township are studying in the classrooms and practicing self defense tactics in the gymnasium of the former Cherry Hill High School in Inkster. The academy, formerly housed at Madonna College, moved to the site of the Wayne-Westland Community School District Adult and Community Education facility this fall when the program outgrew its former facility.

According to Dr. Anthony (Tony) Shannon, executive director of training for the department, the 550 hours of training includes criminal law, firearms, correctional duties, self-defense, traffic patrol and defensive driving. In addition, classes in the history of law enforcement and ethics are taught.

State law mandates 440 hours of training for all law enforcement officers, but due to the special nature of the duties and assignments of the Sheriff's Department, an additional 110 hours are included in the academy program.

Wayne County officers are assigned to the circuit and recorders courts, youth home, airport, parks, road patrol and two correctional facilities. Their broad spectrum of duties also includes the water patrol division in the summer months and assignments in the auto theft, identification, felony warrant and narcotics divisions.

Most of the graduates of this class of the academy will be assigned to fill vacancies in the correctional facilities, according to Shannon. These assignments call for particular skills, he said.

"A good correctional officer wears as many hats as anyone in the department," Shannon said. "He must be able to understand people, be able to talk to and relate to all kinds of people and to be aware of their 'games.'"

Classes in psychology and sociology aid them in understanding the incarcerated individuals and help them to deal with the day-to-day problems they encounter in their assignments, Shannon said. Since people in these areas are most vulnerable to lawsuits, they receive training in how to avoid situations which could lead to potential court actions.

In response to Metro Airport being named as a potential target for terrorists, the Sheriff's Department has set up a special weapons team, Shannon said. Officers are trained to understand terrorists and are continually updated in the behaviors to observe and tactics on dealing with them, including negotiating. Two members of the department have been trained by the FBI, he said. The Sheriff's Department would work in cooperation with the federal agency in the event of a terrorist attack by securing and maintaining the area, according to the training director.

Shannon, who has held his post for the past 11 years, noted many changes in law enforcement training since he took charge of the training program. "Only 240 hours of instruction were required at that time and there was no mandated correctional training. Today defensive driving training is mandated as well as instruction in self-defense."

The past decade also has brought more advanced techniques in investigations. For example, a class conducted by Kodak informed officers on how to take photographs of crime scenes, he added.

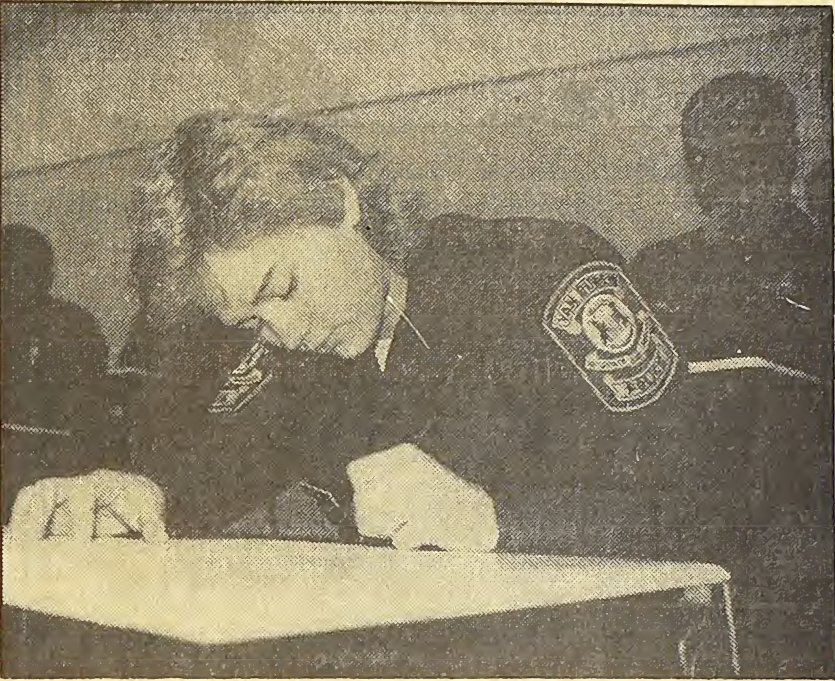

More extensive training of officers is scheduled to occur in the future, Shannon said, because Sheriff Ficano has mandated 20 hours of in-service training per year for each man. This will include arson, narcotics and homicide investigation, advanced correctional instruction and management training.

The program at the Inkster site is expected to expand in the future as the need for more highly trained officers continues to increase.

Gear attended Beverly Elementary School and St. Aloysius School. He graduated from Romulus High School in 1969.

"Everybody encouraged me to pursue teaching and art. But two teachers, Robert Moore who taught American History at Romulus and Jon Lochard who taught art at the University of Michigan, were especially inspiring," he said.

Gear earned both his bachelor of science and masters degrees at the University of Michigan in occupational education with a minor in psychology. He is currently working toward a doctoral degree.

"Occupational education is based around commercial arts as opposed to the fine arts. This would include drafting, illustrating and photography. We teach both types of art but the intention is for students to receive a balance.

"My emphasis is on personal attention. I give individual attention to the students. I get involved with them after school in the local community. I like watching students develop into productive citizens that will contribute something positive to society. The future lies in the hands of our young adults. It's up to educators to nurture and instill positive ideas into our youth," he explained.

Gear began drawing at an early age. His father died when he was 13 years old. "I spent a lot of time home alone as the youngest of three children. So I drew airplanes and cars just to keep myself amused. I've always loved art," he recalled.

The family lived above the party store on Wayne Road owned and operated by his parents.

He has taught art at Post Junior High School and Cass Tech High School in Detroit. For five summers Gear taught at Cranbrook Schools in Bloomfield Hills.

After college, Gear worked on set designs at WKBD with Bill Kennedy and Lou Gordon.

Last year, he joined the reserves of the U.S. Army. "The Army sent me to the Pentagon where I worked on a classified art project," he noted.

"Most of my art is politically oriented. I've always been concerned about world issues as they affect people. I was 5 years old when Kennedy and King were assassinated. Those incidents really affected me. I'm a product of the 60s," he said.

Last year, Gear and his students received one grant from the Detroit Council of the Arts and another from the Michigan Department of Education.

"The grants funded a large art project built by my class about man and space and displayed in the lobby of the City County Building. I like working with these kids. It's rewarding," he said.

romulus news in brief

AN ARMED ROBBER stole an undisclosed amount of money from a young female resident as she and her 2-year-old son exited their car in the townhouse parking lot near Plainway and Elm Lane in the south end of the city at 10 p.m. on Saturday. A 6 foot, 2 inch tall, black male approached the victims and knocked the 2-year-old down according to police reports. He apologized and then grabbed the mother. Armed with a knife, he demanded her money, which she surrendered. The suspect was about 20-30 years old and wore a grey, ankle-length coat. Police are still investigating. Anyone with information is asked to call 941-1111.

THE STUDENTS OF THE MONTH at Romulus Junior High School for the first three months of the school year are: in September, Yolanda Jones and Joan Dubanik; in October, Yolanda Rupert and Angela Lipford; and in November, Jodi Brothers and Malina Tolbert. "There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that this is a girls-only award. It's only the luck of the male administrator's draw," said Gail Fraley, student council advisor.

"Every month, each teacher at the junior high gives one nomination for a student to be given special recognition. The award for each of these students is a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. The bonds are provided by the Coca Cola Bottlers of Detroit," Fraley added.

Suspect arrested

Canton police have arrested an 18-year-old man in connection with a fire and explosion at the Department of Public Works building.

The fire occurred at approximately 2:15 a.m. Dec. 7.

Arrested and charged with arson last week was Daniel Harvey, who resides in an apartment in the 43000 block of Michigan Avenue.

He has been released on $10,000 bond.

On the morning of the fire, a Canton police officer patrolling Belleville Road heard a loud explosion just before witnessing a second blast, reports stated.

The officer reported seeing an orange fireball and orange flames "shooting approximately 200 feet into the air."

The damage done by the fire to the township-owned building was estimated at $3000.

dan's dogs

If you've never heard of "Third-week-itis" then you've probably never had a dog in obedience class.

This frustrating malady happens almost like clockwork to those dogs in training. The first week the dog is difficult to control for a few minutes because the classroom situation is new and confusing to the dog (as well as to the owner). This is absolutely normal and we all have experienced it.

The second week seems so easy. New commands and leash control have been explained and the owner, hopefully, has followed instructions and has spent the required amount of time working the dog. So that the second week of class proves rewarding and, surprisingly, seems to be a relaxing hour.

dan morris

It's during the middle of the third week that our phones begin to ring with frantic, angry students complaining that their dog has suddenly turned into an idiot, is more stubborn than ever and if the dog doesn't watch out, it will end up "SIX FEET UNDER!"

If the above description resembles your situation in any way at all, be assured that you are not alone, everyone feels their dog is the only dog in the class that is rebelling. They're not aware that their classmates have called with the same dilemma.

By the third week, most dogs this; it was much more fun acting like a nut before!" He gives his owner a hard time and the owner loses all the confidence he had. The practices at home become torture rather than fun. Nothing is gained. The dog wins that round.

All a student need remember is that "Third-week-itis" happens to every student. By week number four, it goes away if the owner relaxes and remembers that bad habits don't happen overnight and so they won't disappear overnight either.

Training your dog should be a fun time for both of you. Maintain a sense of humor and it will all turn out great in the end.

The perfect host

Canton man has a party 'in store'

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Frank Sabo is gearing up for New Year's Eve. He has in stock party hats of every color, noise makers, whistles, bells, plates, napkins, streamers, balloons, stuffed animals, glitter, plastic arrows for the head and Happy New Year toilet paper, to list just a few of his party favors.

And he isn't even having a party this year.

Instead, the 46-year-old Canton Township resident will be delivering balloons and party favors to the countless number of area residents who will be hosting a New Year's Eve party this year as just another one of his duties of owning a business. Sabo is the owner of "Let's Have a Party" in Westland and has been specializing in meeting the party needs of the area for more than a year now.

"I always presented a lot of parties (in my last job). I worked with seniors, adults and young people. I was responsible for having a party just about every month," said Sabo of his background behind the unusual business venture. "I just wanted to open (the store). I looked at other stores and decided that I wanted to have a business of my own."

Basing his business venture on his warm personality and ability to relate to other people, Sabo began to stockpile party favors of every sort in his Westland store. His goal? "To meet people's individual party needs" and "to see people satisfied."

In his new store, Sabo placed the newest party rage—helium-filled balloons, along with streamers, stuffed animals, colored paper and pens. And, how could anyone in the party business forget the most popular items for the 1980s party? Sabo, of course, didn't forget.

"Toilet paper. That has to be the most unusual item with the biggest reaction from customers," explained Sabo.

At $2.19 per roll, holiday toilet paper is for the party giver who wants the ultimate, Sabo was quick to admit. But, then again, who could be without a roll of the newest Christmas toilet paper, or maybe a roll of over-the-hill tissue would fit the bill?

In addition to the toilet paper, balloons of every sort are almost a requirement for the "in" party, Sabo said. From wedding showers to graduations, birthdays to New Year's Eve, helium-filled balloons provide the touch of class needed at most every party, according to Sabo.

Far from being an amateur at the party-giving game, Sabo knows the tricks of the trade. Personalized and direct customer contact are just two of the secrets, the store owner said, which have made him and his business a hit in the community.

"I have thrown parties hundreds of times so I know what people are looking for," Sabo said. "People like to be given good, positive ideas—color combinations, coordinating tips. They want to know how to coordinate the plates and how to coordinate the balloons."

Customers to the store "fill the gamut" demographically, Sabo said. Young kids come in to buy unusual party gadgets, the middle-aged are those hosting the parties and buying the Frank Sabo supplies, while some of the older folks stop by just to show Sabo pictures of their grandchildren. It's these customers, Sabo said, that make his business a sort of party each moment he is at work.

"I like it so much because of the people. They are just so personable," Sabo explained. "I have a lot of repeat customers who come in just to talk or show me pictures. It's kind of like living in a small town."

Old inns add charm to history

As the ses- quicentennial year approaches, there seems to be a spirit of homecoming in the state. In keeping with the spirit, a renewed interest in historic inns and hotels has swept through Michigan prompting the state to issue a booklet describing some of the popular and unique lodgings.

Some of the inns described in the Michigan Travel Bureau publication are simple farmsteads while others are stagecoach stops, mansions or former lakeshore summer homes.

One section of the booklet highlights the bed and breakfast lodgings in which travelers may stay as a guest in the lodging with breakfast included in the price of the room.

Owosso, located near the Shiawassee River on M-52, has seven bed and breakfast lodgings. Archer's Castle on East King Street, Huber Haus on Wilkinson Road, The J.B. Cain's on Waugh Road, Merkel Manor on Park Street, Mulberry House on North Shiawassee, the R & R Farm-Ranch on Hibbard Road and Sylverlynd on McBride Road all offer the homey touch for travelers.

Police cadet is accused in rapes

By SHERRY WOODARD
ANP Staff Writer

A Dearborn Heights police cadet, suspected of committing as many as 11 robberies and rapes in western Wayne County was arrested by Westland police on Dec. 19.

Jeffrey Duncan, 22, of Dearborn Heights, was taken into custody while he worked the day shift at the police station. According to a spokesman there, he had been a cadet for eight to 10 months.

"The people on my shift were surprised," said Sgt. Michael Gust, commenting on Duncan's arrest. "He really didn't exhibit any kind of troubled personality. He was a model employee."

As a cadet, Duncan answered phone calls at the police station, wrote reports on minor incidents and worked as a dispatcher - activities performed by all cadets.

According to Gust, no psychological testing was required of Duncan when he joined the force.

Duncan has been suspended without pay from the Dearborn Heights Police Department. Should he eventually be cleared of the charges he faces, the department chief would have to decide if he could continue his work toward becoming a police officer.

Westland police arrested and charged Duncan with two counts of criminal sexual conduct. Police departments in Canton, Livonia and Taylor were also expected to formally charge him.

Canton Police Department spokesman Dave Boljesic said Canton officials would probably arraign Duncan on Jan. 5 on charges of rape and robbery.

On Nov. 11 an employee at Sparr's Florist on Canton Center Road was assaulted by a man who came in at closing time and asked to buy roses.

The victim, an 18-year-old Plymouth woman, was working alone at the time. She told police her attacker threatened her with a gun.

After attacking the woman, the rapist took $400 and a gold nugget ring she was wearing.

"Our biggest things was to get him off the streets, and we've done that," Sgt. Robert Barthold at the Westland Police Department.

According to Barthold, a lineup was staged in Westland Saturday. He said nine women participated, and all identified Duncan as their assailant.

Duncan's arrest came about after a viewer saw a composite sketch on WJBK-TV two weeks ago.

"A viewer watched Channel 2 and thought they recognized the individual. The individual was investigated," Barthold said.

The viewer's call set in motion a series of back-and-forth telephone conversations between Westland police, a police artist and other area officials involved in the investigation of the string of rapes and robberies which had plagued the area.

Barthold said the Dearborn Heights Police Department was cooperative in the arrest.

"They assisted us in the investigation," Barthold said. "It was one of their officers who assisted us."

Gust said the news of the arrest caught his shift off-guard. However, he works the afternoon shift while Duncan worked the morning shift. Gust said he knew Duncan "only through work" but had not suspected he could be linked to the highly-publicized rapes and robberies.

Duncan did not seem surprised or angry when Westland police picked him up, Barthold said, adding the suspect did not behave in an uncooperative manner.

Duncan was being detained last week in the Wayne County Jail. No bond was set.

If convicted of the charges, Duncan could face a punishment of life in prison.

Schools provide clothing

The Head Start offices of the Wayne County Intermediate School District in Wayne were buried in coats, clothing and toys for needy families during the past few weeks. On Dec. 22, 160 children received a complete outfit of new clothing thanks to the clothing drive.

Intermediate School District officials said that it's not clear which came first, but Teresa Myers, Head Start administrator and Westland resident, and members of her staff managed to get involved with "coats for kids," "toys for tots" and "adopt-a-child-size" for Christmas.

In October, Myers invited all Intermediate School District staff members to participate in an adopt-a-child-size project.

Several departments and individuals responded.

Each was assigned a child's size and purchased several outfits in that size. The project mushroomed as staff members took the project to their churches and raised adoptions resulted.

Somewhere along the way, Sears, Roebuck and Company of Lincoln Park came into the picture and donated 100 coats to the project. FOCUS: Hope provided Santa bears.

In addition, Meyers became involved with the Marine Corps "Toys for Tots" program.

"I don't have my own shopping done," said Myers last week when asked about the program, "but it will happen before New Year's Day."

Hospital offers pain relief

People afflicted with chronic pain can now receive help through the Beyer Memorial Hospital Pain Management Clinic.

Under the direction of Vildan Mullin, M.D., head of anesthesiology at Beyer and former director of the University of Michigan Pain Clinic, the Beyer clinic provides diagnostic services, consultations, referral services and treatments.

Depending upon the illness, treatment can be the result of a variety of medical and related disciplines. Anesthesiologists can utilize nerve blocks. Physical and occupational therapists can help restore physical functioning, and vocational rehabilitation professionals can help with work-related problems.

Patients are accepted by the Pain Management Clinic either through a physician's referral or through self-referral. People interested in the program should call 484-2504, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

WHAT IS A TEMPORARY FILLING?

A temporary filling is a paste made of eugenol and zinc oxide powder. It is used as a liner or filling on a very deep cavity. Eugenol reduces bacterial growth and inflammation. It also decreases sensitivity to hot and cold.

Canton is covered with new soccer stadium

By SHERRY WOODARD
ANP Staff Writer

Canton-Plymouth business and recreation department officials hope it will be up-up-and-away for a new indoor soccer field which is covered by a huge balloon like material.

Located at the Canton Softball Center, on Michigan Avenue near Belleville Road, the Canton Soccerdome is now operational. The grand opening to kick off the debut of the facility was held in late November.

According to Canton Department of Recreation Supervisor Mike Gouin, the owner of the Soccerdome had long been searching for a winter activity that would bring customers into his restaurant next door to the dome.

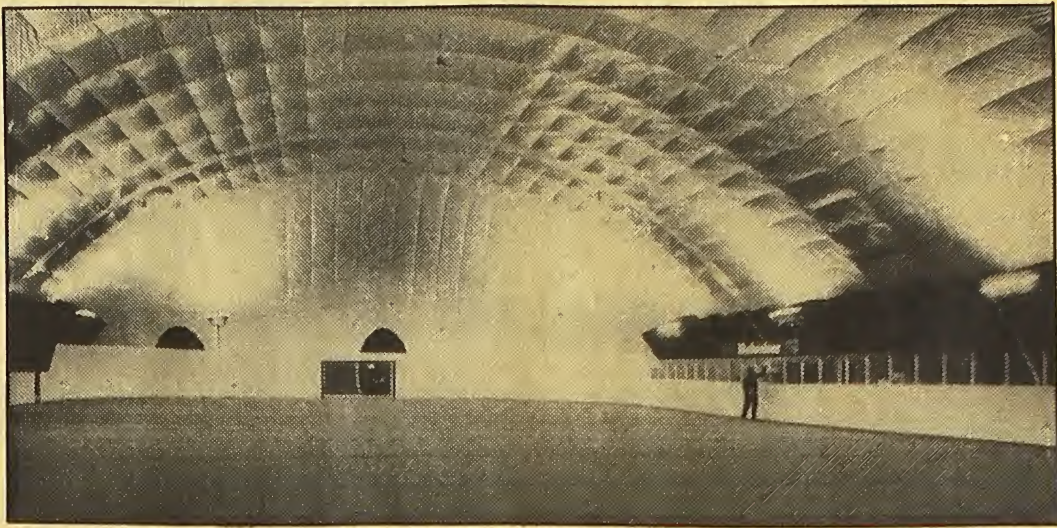

"This year he called us in late summer and said he'd go for it," Gouin said. "He (Aaron Jade) just asked for some ideas on what he could do in the community."

Both Canton and Plymouth community leaders worked to make the dome a reality and the two townships will split half of the profits from the venture. "If there are any," Gouin added.

Initial reaction to the dome has been positive. The structure is shaped like a rectangle with ribbed, rounded sides. The bottom half has a wide green stripe around it while the rest of the balloon surface is white.

"There was a lot of excitement in the air," said Mike Raupp Soccerdome manager, when it opened.

"We even had tourists," he said. Visitors came from as far away as Brighton and Royal Oak.

The Canton Soccerdome is now open and ready for business. Bill Bolen, John Groff and Robert Hope keep the balloon-topped facility in tip top shape.

Visitors from Royal Oak could probably appraise the dome with a bit more of a critical eye. They have their own dome structure but Raupp said the Royal Oak facility pales by comparison.

"The one in Royal Oak is exactly the same size. . . I think ours is a little nicer in that it's more attractive on the inside," he said. "Really it's an all-around entertainment complex."

To inflate the dome for the first time took a lot less time than most people would probably guess by looking at it.

"It took about 45 minutes to inflate," Raupp said. "It's quite a sight. This is on top of half of our parking lot, practically." The Soccerdome sits on a segment of the parking lot at the Canton Softball Center. It measures approximately 120 x 295 x 45 feet. Within it are two soccer fields--one is regulation dimensions at 185 x 85 feet, the second is a smaller practice field measuring 80 x 60 feet.

Maintenance of the Soccerdome requires weekly checks of blowers and pressure equipment. The fields must also be vacuumed regularly using equipment that is not unlike normal vacuum cleaners, Raupp said. "It's (just) a lot wider."

The temperature inside the dome is a steady 58 degrees, Raupp said. "Really, a light jacket is all you need in there."

People still come inside wearing overcoats when they plan to sit in the stands and watch soccer matches, Raupp added, however the coats are soon shed.

The first soccer season is almost over, according to Gouin. Before the next one ends Raupp said he hopes to have some major tournaments scheduled.

Future plans also include starting an "Over 30" league. All games are played using U.S. Soccer Federation Indoor Rules.

Many happy returns
Convert goof gifts to cookware

By CHEF LARRY JANES
ANP Special Writer

I love Christmas. Fortunately, my family and friends make pretty good selections when choosing gifts, but let's face it, every now and then, up pops a goose-egg that you just can't wait to return for something a little more practical or frivolous.

Now is the time to invest in good kitchenware. All the stores will be featuring unbelievable sales and markdowns on goods purchased for Christmas. Retailers who stock up on holiday goodies are almost forced to give markdowns of 20-50 percent just to reduce their stock before costly inventory time appears. And copper ware is no exception.

Copper in its pure form or in such alloys as brass and bronze was the most treasured metal for the cooking vessels of the ancients, and this has not changed much. Copper pots are still the discriminating cook's first choice.

This is because copper is almost unsurpassed (only silver is better) at conducting heat, which the metal accepts and distributes evenly and uniformly, without hot spots to cause sticking or burning. Okay, so it's not for everyone, my kids' oatmeal and chicken soup would taste equally as good in Farberware, but I'm talking good food here. I love copper because when you're done cooking, copper loses heat promptly, preventing disasters such as overcooking delicate sauces. Although the metal itself is tough, it does dent, but all dents can be removed; and above all, I love it because it's beautiful. My copper pots and saucepans hang from wallhooks with that warm glow possessed by no other metal.

Now there are copper pans and there are copper pans. Experts advise that copper pots be judged by their weight, not their heft alone. Avoid thin, tinny pans. Although their looks might catch your eye, these overheat easily. Buy as heavy a pot as you can handle comfortably. It is also suggested that you look for good balance when checking out copper. If a pan has a long handle, test the piece by setting it on a table, pressing the tip of the handle. A good balanced pot will right itself immediately and hardly wobble.

Look for a pan to be well-made and well finished, with good balance, a well shaped handle of solid metal firmly fastened to the pot and a hand tinned lining. Some of the best copper ware still hails from France by way of such well known importers as C. F. Lamalle and B.I.A. Cordon Bleu. Some very good copper is made in the states, but beware of low class imitations.

Because copper is such an exceptional conductor of heat, remember to use low heat when cooking with copper. Tin linings will melt at 449 degrees, so it's handy to attempt high temperature frying, roasting or broiling, especially the making of preserves or confectionery that uses very hot sugar.

Copper normally acquires a patina - a gradual darkening of its color - as the surface oxidizes. It can also acquire verdigris - a poisonous green substance - when it comes in contact with certain acids and moisture in the air. Linings of tin, silver or stainless steel make copper pots safe to use. Unlined pots and beating bowls (you won't believe how HIGH your whites will peak) must always be cleaned thoroughly, as must all copper surfaces.

I certainly hope that your Christmas was a merry one and that you received everything on your list, but if Santa made a boo-boo, don't trade it in for a tie or some hankies. Treat yourself to the start of a culinary classic and go shopping for some copper.

Try these nifty recipes that are just outstanding prepared in copper, but still tasty made in just about anything.

LINGUINE WITH CLAMS
(Serves 2)

- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 medium onion, diced
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tsp. flour
- 1 small can minced clams or 12 clams, minced
- 1/2 cup half and half
- 2 tsp. fresh parsley, chopped
- 6 ounces linguine noodles, cooked and drained

Melt butter in the saucepan over medium heat. Add onion and garlic and saute until golden. Blend in the flour, reduce the heat and add clams and milk. Simmer, stirring often, for 10 minutes. Add parsley and a dash of salt and pepper. Serve over linguine noodles.

SHRIMP ETOUFFEE
(Serves 4)

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 cup chili sauce
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 2 lbs. shrimp, shelled and deveined
- 1/4 cup dry white wine
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 2 tbsp. shallot or green onion, chopped
- fresh cooked rice

Melt the butter in the skillet over medium heat. Add chili sauce, onion and celery and saute until vegetables are tender. Place mixture in a blender or processor and process until smooth. Return to skillet and add shrimp and wine and saute until shrimp is cooked, about 5 minutes. Stir in parsley and sprinkle with shallot or green onion. Serve with rice.

CREPES SUZETTE

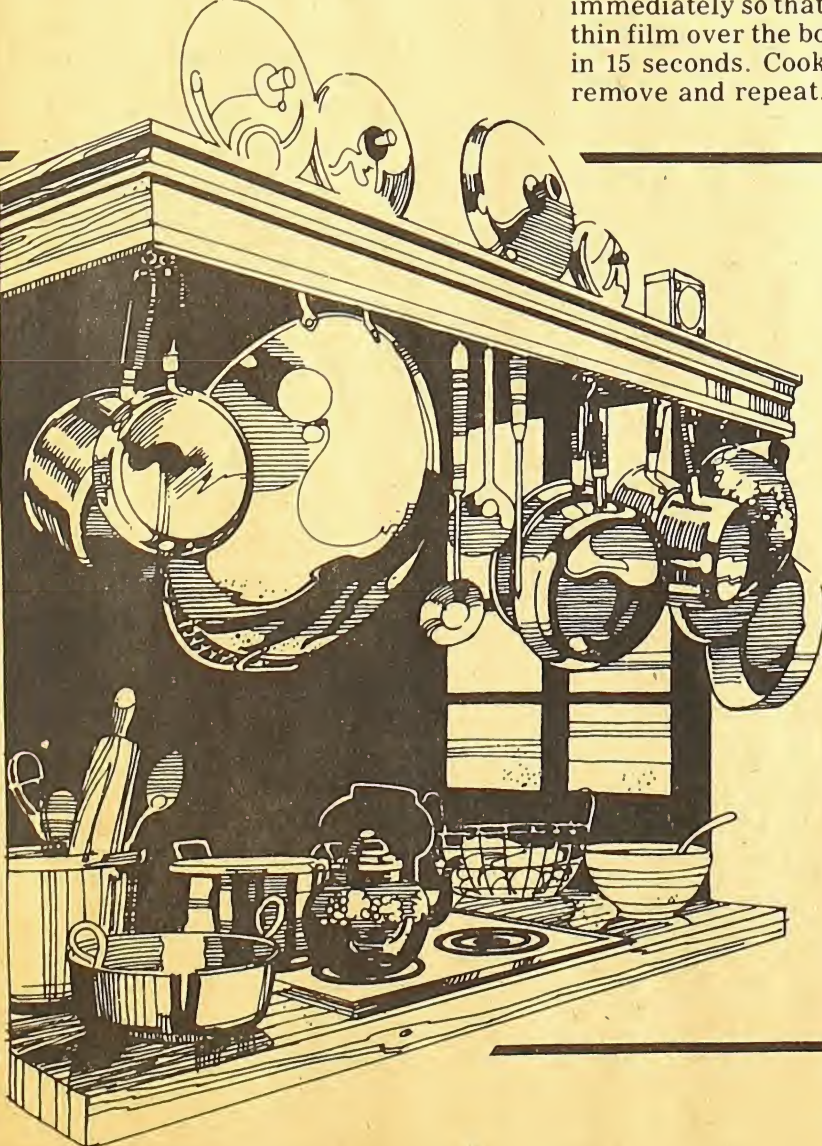

- CREPES:
- 3 eggs
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tbsp. butter
- 2 tbsp. brandy (optional)
- 1 cup flour
- 3/4 tsp. salt
- 2 tbsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla

Place all ingredients in a blender or processor and process until smooth. Heat a good skillet until hot. Brush with clarified butter and add about 1/4 cup of the batter to the pan. Turn and tip the pan immediately so that the batter will form a thin film over the bottom of the pan. Turn in 15 seconds. Cook for 5 more seconds, remove and repeat.

- SUZETTE:
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/4 cup powdered sugar
- zest of 1 orange
- juice of 1 orange
- 3 tbsp. Cointreau or Grand Marnier

Cream butter with powdered sugar and zest. Stir in orange juice and liqueur. When ready to serve, place the flavored butter in a good skillet and allow to melt. Dip each crepe in the mixture and fold into quarters. When all crepes are dipped, sprinkle with a little powdered sugar and then add three more tablespoons of your favorite liqueur and 1/4 brandy in the butter mixture. Light with a match, spoon the flaming liquid over the crepes and serve immediately.

In order to make this properly, a copper zabaglione pan is needed for optimum results.

As the economy of Michigan expands beyond reliance on the automobile manufacturing industry, new sources of development are being encouraged by the state government. New entrepreneur-based businesses, the forest products industry and automotive manufacturing-related companies are all receiving financial and educational assistance.

The modern-day entrepreneur is responsible for many new and innovative business ventures in Michigan. The state offers several assistance programs to persons starting new business, including a special toll-free hotline directed at minority entrepreneurs. By calling 1-800-831-9090, women and members of racial or ethnic minorities can get specialized assistance from state Department of Commerce experts.

The forest products industry, one of the first and for many decades the leading industry in Michigan, is undergoing new expansion. Approximately 63,000 Michigan workers are employed by timber management, logging and wood based manufacturing firms. Every year this industry, which is based on one of the most valuable natural resources of our state, generates a $1 billion payroll. Michigan has an abundance of desirable timber, terrain that is conducive to logging operations, an efficient highway network and a central geographic location. Experts predict that the improving business climate and continuing reliable workforce will propel the Michigan timber industry to new economic heights in the years ahead.

State government is helping at least one community help a timber firm expand its operations in Michigan. Through the Small Cities Program, a northern Michigan village was able to upgrade its infrastructure of roads, sewers and other services to support a major new sawmill. In addition, state universities regularly supply research and technical assistance to the forest products industry.

This kind of educational and vocational help is available to established auto-related firms as well. Using funds from a job-opportunity program created last year by the state Legislature, several community colleges are helping such small companies plan their growth into the next century. The state supported program helps a firm identify its particular strengths and greatest potentials, and create a specific business plan to maximize that potential.

Any successful business venture, whether brand new or traditional, with its base in natural resources or in the manufacturing process, contributes to the economic future of Michigan. By supplying informational and financial assistance, the state is working in its own best interests.

Police investigate robbery

Canton police were investigating an armed robbery which occurred during the wee hours of Monday morning outside of the White Castle Restaurant at Ford and I-275.

About 3:45 a.m. Dec. 22 a 46-year-old east Canton woman was approached by a man as she sat in her car.

The man tapped on the window of the car with a gun and demanded the woman open the door. She refused until he threatened to shoot her, police spokesman Dave Boljesic said. The gunman drove to the Ford Road exit of the restaurant parking lot with the woman on the passenger side of the car, a 1979 Ford station wagon, before ordering her out.

The woman was then told her car would be returned later that morning at the corner of Michigan and Hannan, Boljesic said.

Neither the car nor the gunman were found at the location.

The victim's purse was also taken. It contained $100 and a $167 paycheck from White Castle.

Secretary of State office is relocated

The local branch of the Secretary of State's office, located at 6090 N. Wayne Road, Westland, will be permanently closed at that location beginning Tuesday, Jan. 13, the Michigan Department of State announced recently.

The office will reopen at a new location on Friday, Jan. 16. The new office will be located at 6072 N. Wayne Road, Westland.

Locations of other branch offices include: 5727 S. Wayne Road, Wayne; 27407 Michigan Ave., Inkster; and 6034 Sheldon Road, Canton.

Abduction suspect arrested in Wayne

A 23-year-old Livonia man who reportedly abducted a 19-year-old and held her at a Wayne gas station was arrested Saturday by Wayne Police.

Danny Franklin was charged with possession of a short barrel shotgun and is being held in the Wayne County Jail in lieu of posting his $7,500 personal bond. Franklin was charged by Wayne Police in the incident, but the 19-year-old Livonia woman did not wish to press charges.

Wayne police received a call from the Livonia Police Department at about 2:13 p.m. reporting the alleged abduction. Police found the young woman standing at a telephone at a gas station located on Wayne and Van Born roads. Franklin was waiting in a car near the phone, according to police.

Police reported that they seized the man after arriving at the scene and searched his car. An unloaded, short barrel shot gun was found in the car.

Possession of a short barrel shotgun is a felony charge which has a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

A Jan. 7 preliminary examination date has been set for Franklin.

To make a better 1987

Local officials resolve to improve the new year

January

Wayne Mayor Pat Norton said his goal was to continue working on the image of the city of Wayne. He is thankful for the blessings of good health, and "I will be continuing to follow my doctor's orders in the new year."	Wayne City Manager Tom Daily said that he has everything he needs. "But, I do hope that all of our (city) goals are accomplished in 1987, and I hope my son comes home safely from being stationed in Germany."	Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnnaly said, "I'd like to see police department with a full staff. I hope to continue to work together with both local and regional individuals for the continued growth and betterment of the community."	"Let's spend the taxpayers money wisely," said Romulus Councilman William Wadsworth. "I hope we can improve city services to residents. After many years, finally, the city of Romulus has a working council."	Van Buren Township Supervisor R. Lynn Hamilton also had the welfare of the community in mind. "I want to continue to seek new developments as in the past. I would also like to enhance the tax base for the benefit of the residents."	Van Buren Township Clerk Delphine Dudick was much more down to earth and specific in her New Year's resolution. "I want to stop smoking! Positively! After 40 years, it's time to quit."	In the true mayoral sense, Belleville Mayor Beverly Stinehour had the community of Belleville in mind, in her resolution. "I want to expand on the cosmetic improvement that has been started in the city."

Canton Township Clerk Linda Chuhuran has resolved to graduate from college in 1987. She has gotten close to the goal but has never quite managed to obtain the often-coveted sheepskin. "I'm really close to getting my bachelor's," she said. Hanging on the wall in her office are four associate's degree, but no B.A.	Unlike Chuhuran, Canton Police Chief John Santomauro admitted that he does not make New Year's resolutions. "I don't have any," he said after pondering the question for a second or two. "I don't think I ever have." In addition, Santomauro said, "I don't believe in black cats and all that other stuff either."	Lorrie Eggers, confidential secretary to the Westland mayor, reported that she makes no resolutions. "I have none to make and, therefore, none to break," she said. She does not recall ever having made resolutions on New Year's Eve and, consequently, has a "perfect record of having never broken a resolution."	Westland Mayor Charles "Trav" Griffin has resolved to "lose 10 pounds and to work out at least a couple of times each week." Griffin is hopeful that he can keep those promises, but added that they are the same ones he has made annually for several years. Having his resolutions published may make a difference this year, he said,	Inkster City Manager Greg Knowles has faith in New Year's resolutions. "I think for the most part people believe that they are going to keep the things they resolved to do. For me, I try to do what I need to do to keep moving forward and do not necessarily wait until a certain time to say I'm going to make a commitment to do it."	John Bloodworth, director of the Public Works Department in Inkster tries to keep his resolution making a year-round project. "I really don't feel a need to wait until a certain time of year to make up my mind that I can, or need to do a certain thing. I simply go ahead, whatever the time of year and press on."	Inkster Mayor Betty Miller hasn't thought of a resolution yet for this time of year. "I have not really thought about making a resolution. I just try to do the good thing, the right thing. Whatever would be most rewarding and best for others all the time."

Resolutions: Reality or wishful thinking?

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

New Year's resolutions are often broken before the confetti is swept away on Jan. 1, even though the individual who makes them has the best of intentions.

"As human beings, we are filled with wonderful intentions," according to therapist Diane O'Connor of Woodcreek Counseling. "We want to start the new year with our best foot forward, and we believe we can start over at the beginning of the year."

O'Connor believes attitude and commitment are the two ingredients necessary to keep resolutions. "The failure rate is extremely high when the resolution is made for someone else. The decision to change or make improvements must be one's own."

A decision to lose weight, for example, may not be successful if the reason revolves around pleasing another person, she said. However, if an individual resolves to lose weight for health reasons or because she wants to look good in a swim suit next summer, the chances of success are much better.

The new year is often chosen to begin a weight loss program because the round of holiday parties is over and there are not many social engagements before Valentine's Day or the Easter holidays, according to O'Connor. On the negative side, is the fact that January, February and March are "dark, dull and dreary" with little sunlight, and these are conditions that tend to depress people. With depression, she continued, comes a tendency to eat more or smoke more thus making it difficult to keep resolutions to lose weight or stop smoking.

"The Christmas trees and decorations are gone and there are very few hours of daylight at the beginning of the year. Light makes a great deal of difference in the way people feel and behave," O'Connor noted. "If you remember a couple of weeks ago we had four days of overcast skies and then a cold, but sunny Sunday. I watched people and noticed that they reacted as if someone had lifted a veil - they behaved differently on that sunny day."

Another enemy of resolution-keeping, O'Connor noted, is guilt. When, for example, we break a resolution to refrain from smoking, we feel guilty and then tend to smoke more as we set up our own "guilt cycle." O'Connor believes the guilt pushes individuals further into the behavior.

She cited a case where an adult child resolved to visit his parents more often. When the child saw the parent and was told "why can't you visit me more often?" there is a tendency to avoid the visit and, thereby, avoid the guilt the person experienced for not doing what he has resolved.

If an individual really wants to keep a resolution, O'Connor said, he or she must first realize how the original habit formed and also realize that the old habit must be unlearned.

"Few people have ever said they enjoyed smoking when they first started. Most thought it was cool or sophisticated or that it made them part of the group," O'Connor said. "Then the smoking became a habit. To unlearn the habit takes at least three weeks."

O'Connor advises people to make the statement "I choose not to" rather than to feel deprived about abandoning their habits. After all, she said, you can have all of the cigarettes or banana splits you want to have. Your resolution is to make the choice not to.

1986 in review

Mills, Rockets dominate the headlines

Steve Irwin of the John Glenn baseball team sadly leaves the field.

By MARK NICHOLAS
ANP Staff Writer

As sports fans say goodbye to 1986, they say farewell to a banner year for area sports teams.

Associated Newspapers opened its archives vault and found some of the highlights of the 1986 sports year.

JANUARY

The January editions were filled with scores, stats, and names. The most prominent name, however, was that of Terry Mills, the All-American basketball center from Romulus High School. Mills seemed to perform miracles as he guided the Tigers to win after win.

In late January, readers were informed of Belleville's all-area girl swimmers, 15 of the most talented women swimmers the area schools had to offer.

FEBRUARY

Swimming was again in the headlines in February, as the Wayne Memorial men's team dominated the Western Wayne Swimming and Diving Championships.

In basketball news, Associated readers were well-informed of two steam-rolling teams. By mid-February, Wayne Memorial had just posted its 14th consecutive victory. John Glenn was rolling with its ninth.

Late February saw a well-earned victory by Inkster, over Willow Run, 52-50. Well-earned because the game took four overtimes to complete.

MARCH

March roared in and so did the Rockets. John Glenn's basketball team captured its first WLAA title, in just their first year in the conference.

The end of the month brought the news everyone expected. The Romulus Tigers and "Mr. Basketball," Terry Mills, were Class A State Basketball Champions. The Tigers defeated Detroit Southwestern 72-65 at Michigan's Crisler Arena.

APRIL

With April came the return of Pat Sheridan. Sheridan, a Wayne native, was acquired by the Detroit Tigers from the Kansas City Royals.

In the world of track and field, the Wayne Zebras were off and running as they posted an impressive win over Lincoln Park. The Zebras swept 14 of the 17 events in that meet.

The close of March brought news for kicks, as Greg Boliard and his karate class won a local competition

The Belleville Tiger wrestling team squeaked out a victory over Monroe Thursday 34-31.

Monroe was definitely ready to wrestle as grapplers Esane Amaya and Schon Labell scored victories in the 98-pound and 105-pound classes respectively, to lead off the meet.

The Tigers were not about to take this sitting down. Belleville bounced back like champions receiving victories from James Bashell at 112-pounds, and Tony Danbrock, who scored a pin over Monroe's Scott Bonneau in 3:26, in the 119-pound class.

The sea-saw battle continued as Monroe answered with two more victories at 126 and 132-pounds. Steve Pitcher of Monroe scored a technical foul victory over Tim Clearwood of Belleville for the 126-pound victory. At 132-pounds, Jerry Thomas of Monroe won a closely contested battle over a very determined Joey Yuhas, 7-6.

The two victories put Monroe out front, 4-2 in matches, before Belleville realized what was happening. The tigers were in danger of losing to Monroe, they needed some sort of spark to ignite a fire; ask no more.

The Tigers came out roaring as they swept the next four matches, claiming victories from 138 through 167 pounds. Wrestlers Andy Gohl, Dave Brendtke, Bill Sparrow and Jeff Budd spurred on the Belleville team's victorious charge. Highlighting the charge as Sparrow's 11-0 major decision over Monroe's John West, in the 155-pound class.

Monroe went on to win two of the last three matches, but it wasn't enough as the "middle weight" charge of Belleville was just too much to overcome.

In other Belleville wrestling action, the Tigers finished a respectable ninth out of 16 teams participating in the Howell Invitational on Saturday, Dec. 20th.

Glenn keeps busy during holidays

Well, there's one thing Santa Claus won't have to deliver to the homes of the John Glenn High School basketball team this week - road maps to Farmington. After this past schools may hide all those maps away.

The Rockets continued their winning ways, running their early-season winning streak to four as they feasted on the Harrison Hawks, 94-41, and snacked on an old nemesis, North Farmington, 48-43.

"This is where we wanted to be," said coach Gordie Davis of his team's desire to be 4-0 heading into the Christmas break. "We have a lot of things to work on but we're playing good team ball."

The two wins improved the Rockets' Western Lakes Activities Association record to a sparkling 3-0 as they headed into a two-week break before taking on Plymouth Canton Jan. 6 at Canton.

Dec. 16 found the Rockets at home entertaining Harrison, the same team they had defeated last season by a single point for the WLAA title. For a while, at least for the first four minutes, it looked like it would be a one-point game again. Harrison only trailed, 12-10, but before they knew what happened, the Rockets reeled off 18 consecutive points to lead, 30-10.

The string was orchestrated by Marcus Lowe and Anson Stroman, who played volleyball with the Hawks' guard. Lowe had four steals, including one that he turned into an assist when he fed the ball to Stroman for a ringing slam dunk.

"We played good defense and we shot well," said Davis. "When you do that, good things will happen. We shot 60 percent and got a lot off the defense."

It was more of the same in the second quarter as the Rockets increased their lead to 51-19 by halftime. Andy Grazulis added to his eight first period points with six more and Steve Hawley added four more for his first half total of 16.

By the end of the third quarter, Davis was deep into his bench and going deeper. Grazulis scored nine more points for his game-high total of 23, while Hawley scored six for a total of 22.

The reserves did all they could to get Glenn to the century mark but fell short as time ran out. Rod Killingbeck tipped in one basket and Eric Thornton had six points.

Two days later, the Rockets were to do battle with old-rival North Farmington. As coach Davis readily admits, it isn't easy to play in North's pit.

"North is always a tough one," said Davis. "They have been league rivals for years and years."

Joe Jasjolski : Bowler strikes high at local alley

By MARK NICHOLAS
ANP Staff Writer

The old "T & C," as it's called by most bowlers, has seen many faces over the years, but one has stayed the same.

Joe Jasjolski has been general manager of Town and Country Lanes, Wayne Road in Westland, for 19 years. "I was here for 14 years, then gone for nine. Now I've been back for five years, that's pretty close to 19 years."

Jasjolski's life at Town and Country has been a busy and eventful one. Besides running a bowling alley, he is involved in a Wednesday night league. "I run the Wednesday night Trio League. I am the secretary and treasurer. We don't start until 10:30 p.m., it's kind of an unusual league."

According to Jasjolski, he has seen many faces pass through the front doors of Town and Country Lanes. "Through the years I have seen a lot of famous people. A lot of Detroit Lions used to come in here in the early 60s. Erol Morall, Lions quarterback, use to come in here."

According to Jasjolski, T & C has also seen some excellent bowlers through the years. "All the celebrities from the Detroit and Jackson areas used to come here for my big jackpot games in the mid 60s. Every once and awhile, the Strohs team will come in and put on an exhibition also."

Town and Country Lanes has seen many memorable games but, according to Jasjolski, there are two he remembers most. "The first 300 game bowled here by Joe Childers in 1963 was very exciting. The most unusual one was in week five of six, Jerry Gibbins, came walking through the door and asked if anybody needed a sixth man for their team."

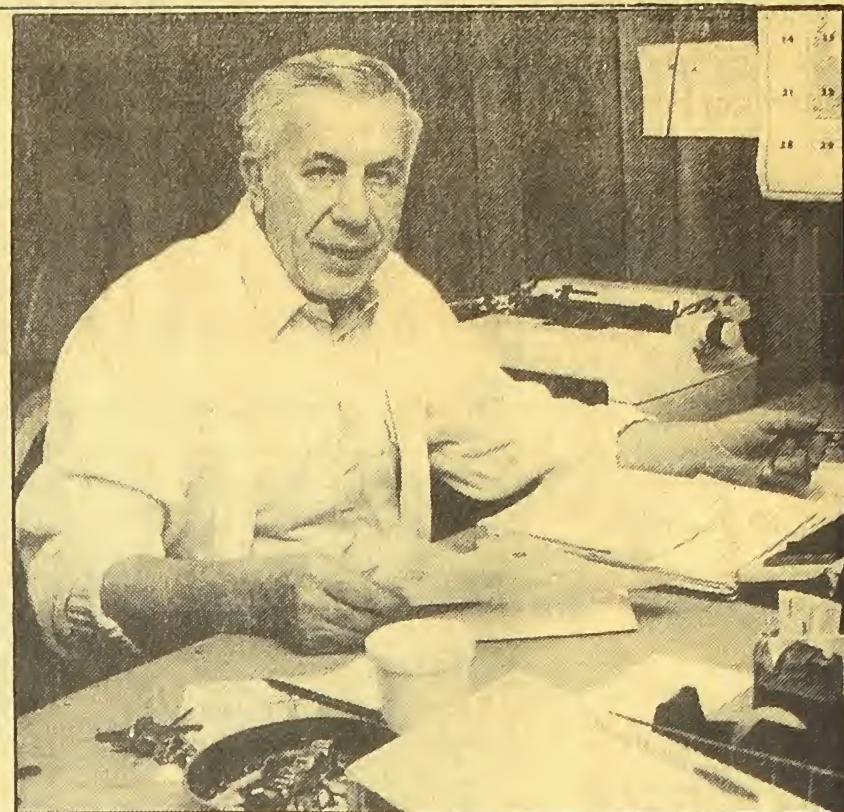

He found a team that needed a fifth man and joined. The first game he bowled a 300, of course everything went downhill from there.

All the years around bowling have paid off but, according to Jasjolski, he could be a better bowler. "I carry around a 180 average, but I'm not a typical bowler. I am here everyday, but I can't practice."

According to Jasjolski, there is time, but it's not always convenient. "I could practice after work, but who feels like bowling after work? I have tried to bowl while I'm working, but there are too many interruptions. The best thing for me to do is to go to another alley and practice." Practice or not, Joe Jasjolski is a good bowler, as his 279-692 high series will attest.

One thing can be certain as we speed into a new year. Bowlers, wherever they are, will always be searching for that elusive 300 game. Another certainty, if it's at Town and Country, Joe Jasjolski will be there to see it.

MAY

Along came May, and with it, the first loss for the John Glenn baseball team. Glenn's winning streak was stopped at 10 games with a 3-2 loss to Plymouth-Canton. The Rockets went on to claim the WLAA division title with a 17-1 record.

Cherry Hill High School, facing its last year in existence, enjoyed a sparkling performance from the school's last track team. The Spartans won their first and last Class B Regional Championship.

JUNE

June continued to bring good news to John Glenn baseball fans. The Rockets advanced to the regional playoffs by claiming the District 6 title.

The overpowering Rockets faced Plymouth-Canton in the Regional final and defeated them easily, by a 13 run margin.

The glory would end at the semi-finals for the tough Glenn team, for waiting in the bushes was a more determined Birmingham Brother Rice squad. The Rockets fought bravely but came up short in a well-pitched game, losing 1-0. The Rockets finished with an impressive 26-3 record.

JULY

July was in full-swing, and so were area golfers as the 1986 City Championship Golf Tournament got under way.

On-lookers were not disappointed as two golfers, Michael Horn and Kevin Ryan, went into sudden death to decide the championship.

The playoff took three holes as a determined Horn prevailed, defeating Ryan by just one-stroke.

AUGUST

August, the month was hot and so were the Westland Federation Pee Wee Reese. The youngsters earned a berth in the "World Series" by winning the mid-east region championship.

As August neared its demise, thoughts began to turn toward football in John Glenn country. The Rockets had just come off a great 9-0 season and were under the gun to perform well.

SEPTEMBER

With the start of school in September came the hopes of the Livonia Franklin Patriots. Associated reported the team as one of the possible sleepers, and a possible threat to Glenn.

OCTOBER

The Halloween month brought treats for Glenn and horror for Belleville.

The Rockets celebrated Halloween by posting an impressive 24-12 victory over always-tough Livonia Stevenson.

The Belleville Tigers on the other hand, felt like wearing masks as Wayne Memorial handed them a 27-6 thrashing. The Tigers record was 0-5 at this point.

NOVEMBER

Cold November brought warmth to the Rockets of Glenn as they made it to their second straight post-season playoffs. The Rockets went as far as the semi-finals before losing to Muskegon, at Attwood Stadium in Flint.

On a lighter note for the Belleville football program, the Tigers finished the season by going .500 in the last four games. The Tigers overall record was only 2-7, but the 24-12 victory over Romulus in the last game of the season, raised some hopes for next season.

DECEMBER

The Christmas month ushered in basketball once again, as prospective players looked under trees for any hoop paraphernalia.

The Belleville Tigers were probably hoping for more, but it could have been worse. Belleville rose to the .500 mark by late December, with a 43-35 victory over Monroe.

December also saw the Rockets of John Glenn defeat Wayne Memorial in swimming competition, for the first time in "who knows when," according to Rocket coach Tracy Hissong.

Just as 1986 was a great year for area sports teams, 1987 promises to bring more thrills, spills and quality sports to the Belleville area.

White Christmas

Words and Music by
IRVING BERLIN

Slowly with expression

"I'm dreaming of a White Christmas..."

Children 12 and under from Wayne recently attempted to complete that sentence for a contest sponsored by the Wayne Parks and Recreation Department, Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Wayne Jaycees and the Wayne Eagle.

Their dreams were warm, touching and myriad as evidenced by the few we've chosen to print. They are exactly as submitted and guaranteed to touch every heart and provide the "White Christmas Spirit" with or without snow...
